

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Mission Education Announces Six New Professional Leadership and Management Books

Six-title professional series expands applied resources for leaders, managers, project professionals, educators, and emerging talent.

Release date: August 15, 2026

Publisher: Mission Education, LLC

Author: Jeffrey S. Weaver, PhD

Mission Education, LLC today announced that six new professional books by Jeffrey S. Weaver, PhD, are available for direct purchase on Amazon. The collection brings applied leadership, management, strategy, talent development, ethics, accountability, and project-delivery guidance together in a coordinated professional series.

Each book is designed to stand on its own as a practical resource for working professionals. The books are also connected to the Institute for Professional Distinction, extending Mission Education's commitment to professional growth without limiting any title to a single course or certificate program.

Available Now on Amazon

Leading Change: Strategy, Alignment, and Applied Management

Paperback | ISBN 979-8-952175-00-6 | $34.99

A practical field guide for translating strategic intent into aligned action, stakeholder commitment, and sustained organizational change.

Purchase: <https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0HF9Y3K2T>

Building the Leadership Pipeline: Competencies, Talent Assessment, and Development

Paperback | ISBN 979-8-952175-01-3 | $36.99

A professional guide to defining leadership competencies, assessing talent fairly, and building development systems that prepare people for greater responsibility.

Purchase: <https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0HFB6ZDX9>

Executive Leadership in Complex Systems: Strategy, Decisions, Culture, and Influence

Paperback | ISBN 979-8-952175-03-7 | $44.99

A systems-oriented resource for executives navigating strategic uncertainty, consequential decisions, organizational culture, and influence across boundaries.

Purchase: <https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0HF9QZVSN>

Managing Projects from Charter to Close: A Practical Hybrid Guide

Paperback | ISBN 979-8-952175-04-4 | $39.99

A practical hybrid guide that connects project chartering, planning, execution, control, adaptation, and closeout in one usable management framework.

Purchase: <https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0HF9X1B43>

Managing from the Middle: Teams, Communication, Performance, and Accountability

Paperback | ISBN 979-8-952175-05-1 | $34.99

A hands-on resource for middle managers who must translate strategy, coordinate teams, communicate across levels, and sustain performance and accountability.

Purchase: <https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0HF9QYLZW>

Available Now on Amazon (continued)

When Leadership Fails: Culture, Accountability, and Ethical Leadership

Paperback | ISBN 979-8-952175-02-0 | $34.99

An applied examination of leadership breakdowns and the cultural, ethical, and accountability practices professionals can use to recognize risk, respond constructively, and rebuild trust.

Purchase: <https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0HFBK4Q4>

A Professional Series Built for Application

Together, the six titles support professionals at multiple levels of responsibility - from middle managers and project leaders to executives and leadership-development practitioners. Across the collection, readers encounter practical frameworks, reflective questions, figures, tables, and application tools intended to move learning into workplace decisions and behavior.

"Professional distinction is built when knowledge becomes disciplined action, responsible leadership, and measurable contribution."

- Jeffrey S. Weaver, PhD

About Jeffrey S. Weaver, PhD

Jeffrey S. Weaver, PhD, is an educator, author, and leadership-development practitioner whose work connects management theory with the responsibilities of leaders in organizations and communities. His prior publications include studies of employee relations and safety, strategy, leadership competencies, organizational leadership failures, graduate research design, and business planning. His revised professional series is connected to the Institute for Professional Distinction and Mission Education's broader commitment to applied learning and professional growth.

About Mission Education, LLC

Mission Education, LLC develops and publishes practical educational resources that help professionals strengthen leadership, management, strategy, organizational capability, and responsible performance. Its books and learning resources are connected to the Institute for Professional Distinction.

Media Contact

Mission Education, LLC

Email: info@missioneducation.me

###